Cleaning Tip

Now is the time to clean out the pantry! Take everything out and wipe out the shelves. Look at the food you have been storing. Are you really going to use that can of tuna, even though you don't like fish? Are you going to actually use that bag of dried chickpeas, or was that dream of making homemade hummus just that, a dream?

I guess my first piece of advice is to make hummus with canned chickpeas. It's so much easier! My second piece of advice would be to take all that "good intention food" and donate it to a local food bank. Less fortunate will make good use of it.

Now stock that pantry back-up! Place newest food at the back and oldest foods in the front. That way you will use it all of it!

Ho-Ho-Help!

Okay, the elephant in the room, Christmas is almost here folks, and you're trying to figure out gifts for your kids, parents, sister, brother, and in-laws that will make them go "Wow!". Think about this, you get your house professionally cleaned before your family comes by for the holidays and everyone simultaneously says "Wow! Your house looks great!"

Book your Christmas clean now and get it out of the way, because we get calls every year that sound a little like "Can you come tomorrow?" and we have to turn clients down because we book up fast! Go to simplycleanhome.com/contact to get an estimate and schedule your Christmas clean.
